

Five Days FDP on The Role of Science and Technology in Building a Sustainable Future to celebrate National Science Day under MoU

Principal Dr. Rishipal of Babu Anant Ram Janata College, Kaul, Kaithal, provided information about the National Science Day celebrations in collaboration with Guru Nanak Khalsa College, Yamunanagar; SMS Labana Girls College, Barada; Guru Nanak Girls College, Yamunanagar; and Guru Nanak Khalsa College, Karnal, a national-level, multidisciplinary five-day Faculty Development Program (FDP) was organized from February 26 to March 1, 2024. The theme of the FDP was "The Role of Science and Technology in Building a Sustainable Future," and it was conducted via the online platform.

Dr. Rishipal shared that on the third day of the FDP, Babu Anant Ram Janata College had the honor of hosting the event. The session began with Dr. Komal Rani introducing the theme and inviting Principal Dr. Rishipal to welcome the speakers and attendees. Dr. Rishipal welcomed and greeted all the speakers and participants, sharing his experiences about the distinguished speakers' personalities and contributions.

The keynote speaker for the first session was Professor Dinesh Kumar, Chairperson of the Geophysics Department, Dean of Research and Development, and Director of IQAC at Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra. He delivered an insightful talk on "Earthquakes: A Natural Disaster," addressing its social and relevant aspects. The second session featured Professor Bhagwan Das Chaudhary from the Geophysics Department at Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra. He discussed "Geospatial Technology for Sustainable Water Resource Management: The Indian Perspective," shedding light on the significance of sustainable management practices.

Dr. Komal Rani skillfully managed the stage, introducing the speakers. Dr. Sonia Rani expressed gratitude to the speakers and attendees, while Dr. Rajiv Kumar Gaba provided technical support. The event was attended by all the college faculty members.

Chaudhary Tejvir Singh, former MLA of Pundri and President of the Management Committee, and an Executive Member of the Bharatiya Janata Party, conveyed his congratulations and best wishes for the successful organization of the event.

